

A SEASON OF WONDER

Festive Season 2026

LONDON, WITH THE LIGHTS TURNED UP

Christmas at Six Senses London starts with a glass of Telmont bubbles or a pot of tea brewed by our Alchemist. At Whiteley's Kitchen, the open fire is lit for festive feasting over a choice of menus, while the bar welcomes you to make a night of it. There's live jazz on New Year's Eve and a De Mamiel facial for the morning after. And for those impossible to buy for, there's always a festive gift experience.

THE SEASON, TAKEN SLOWLY
CHOOSE YOUR STAY

FOR THE WHOLE SEASON

A festive welcome, a foraged tea and a bottle of Telmont, however you choose to spend December.

FOR THE TWO DAYS THAT MATTER

with dinner one evening and lunch the next,
and nothing left for you to organise.

FOR THE NIGHT THAT DOESN'T END AT MIDNIGHT

Champagne, dinner and a facial for whatever the night left behind.

One season. Three ways to stay in it.

CHRISTMAS DAY

LET US HANDLE CHRISTMAS

There are parts of Christmas Day worth holding onto.

The gathering. The anticipation. The moment the first plate arrives and every other conversation temporarily stops.

The early alarm, crowded oven and increasingly complicated potato logistics are less essential.

At Six Senses London, Christmas unfolds over five courses, moving from langoustine and truffle to Balik salmon and caviar, Atlantic halibut, English wagyu and Mont Blanc gâteau.

Christmas would not be complete without a little magic. Father Christmas will make an appearance with surprises and presents along the way, while in-house guests can continue the celebrations with a Christmas movie, popcorn and soft drinks.

Arrive together. Take your time. Leave the washing up to us.

STEP OUT OF THE SEASON

December can be wonderfully excessive.

When you have had enough noise, sparkle and increasingly ambitious social plans, disappear into Six Senses Spa.

Restorative rituals create space to breathe, reset and return to yourself.

Come before the celebrations, between them or once the final glass has been cleared.

London will still be there when you emerge.
