CANTINETTA ANTINORI

The first Cantinetta Antinori restaurant was opened in Florence's historic city centre in 1957 on the ground floor of Palazzo Antinori, one of the finest examples of Renaissance architecture from the mid 1400's.

This project was strongly desired by the Antinori family as it represented a return to past traditions. In fact throughout past centuries, noble Florentine families sold products from their country estates directly from their city residences through small trapdoor-style windows that opened up onto the public streets.

Respect for tradition, the surrounding landscape, strong ties with the countryside and nature's rhythms all complement the pleasure of hospitality and fine cuisine that have been recaptured in Cantinetta Antinori's unique setting, rich in tradition.

Over the years other Cantinetta restaurants have been opened in important European cities: Zurich, Vienna and Monte Carlo, upholding the concept of Tuscan hospitality.
