19-23 St Swithins Lane,
London, EC4N 8AD

It all started in 1790 when the 25-year-old son of a prosperous Scottish cabinetmaker asked for a £300 loan from his father to set up as a wine merchant in London.

ABOUT US

At a time when 'brand names' were unheard of and wines were shipped in barrels rather than bottles, Sandeman started in 1805 to 'brand' the wood casks with the company's initials - GSC (George Sandeman & Co.) - using a hot iron to give the wine a pioneering 'signature' that guaranteed its quality and origin.

Sandeman's Offices
London, 1941-1945

This ambitious young man was George Sandeman, who soon established an impeccable reputation for quality and integrity.

ABOUT US

This is also the year George Sandeman moved the business to 20 St. Swithin's Lane which, built over an ancient vault, provided dry and cool cellars ideal for the ageing of the wines. Instrumental in the building of the brand, this historical site housed Sandeman's head office until 1969, when it moved to the Albert Embankment opposite the Tate Gallery.

- THE DON

A classic City Restaurant at the heart of the Square Mile that offers modern European cuisine with seasonal menus relying on British produce. The Don has a large, diverse wine list with the City's largest selection of Ports and fine wines.

“ The venue is absolutely unique. Staff incredibly pleasant and professional. The food is just amazing and they have great Portuguese beer on tap. Definitely recommend! ”

MIGUEL, DUBLIN

“ My wife and I had a delightful dinner Sandeman Quarter. The Quarter has two separate areas. One is the Bar 1790 and the more formal is The Don. We ate in the Don. The staff was very attentive and gave us excellent advice. The food was prepared as ordered and was superb. The wine selection is exceptional and the sommelier’s recommendations spot on. After dinner, we were shown around the restaurant which was very interesting: the cellars and tunnel are fascinating. I very strongly recommend the Sandeman Quarter. ”
