The Botanic Garden is the perfect space for guests to have their own private, intimate, low lit cocktail lounge hidden behind a secret door.

The Botanic Garden is a speakeasy style cocktail lounge inspired by Erasmus Darwin and his infamous book, 'The Botanic Garden'. Amongst his many achievements, Darwin was a founding Father of the Lunar Society, business partner to Josiah Wedgwood and Grandfather of Charles Darwin

Bubble Room

Capacity up to 14 people

A large dining table of up to 14 guests divided from the main restaurant for privacy but open enough to enjoy the atmosphere and beautiful decor that the restaurant offers. Inspired by Joseph Priestley, founding father of the Lunar society who amongst many achievements discovered Oxygen and Carbonated Water. We felt it only too fitting for us to dedicate a room to Priestley, so near to The Lunar Bar which has bubbles a plenty and where we pay homage to his discoveries and serve our guests the finest, creative drinks offerings we can in true Lunar style.

The Parlour

Capacity up to 40 people

Our largest most versatile space, sectioned off from the rest of the restaurant & utilised in many ways; from Presentations for up to 40 guests with canapés, to a film screening theatre style for 40, traditional dining layouts for large groups or banquet style tables. Every distinguished home in the 18th Century would most likely feature a Parlour room. Paying homage to the past, celebrating the present and future we wanted to bring all of this together with our own Parlour Room where we welcome our guests to dine with us in a modern setting with local art & sculptures adorning our walls, it even has its own secret bookcase.
