Exclusive hire of London's newest West End theatre

Introducing London's newest West End theatre

An oasis of calm in the heart of the action

In the heart of Central London at the junction of Oxford Street, Charing Cross Road and Tottenham Court Road, sohoplace is the first new West End theatre to have been built in fifty years.

Opulent, contemporary finishes of marble and oak create a warm elegance to five floors of public space, with bars and restaurants wrapping around an intimate, central auditorium that seats up to 602 and benefits from exceptional acoustics and sightlines. On the fifth floor, a flexible rehearsal and events space adjoins an exclusive bar and lounge with covered outdoor terrace overlooking the hustle and bustle of the busy West End.

A true West End theatre, sohoplace has quickly become known for its programming, presenting eight public performances each week. But behind the scenes it's quickly establishing itself as Central London's newest events venue. With great spaces available all-year-round, a flexible auditorium equipped to quickly and easily transition between events and shows and the unique opportunity to benefit from the exclusive hire of the entire building on non-performance days, this is the perfect place for awards ceremonies, corporate presentations, individual parties and celebrations, and, of course, a great space in which to create.
