the Buttery

Established as far back as 1870, The Buttery is one of Scotland's most beloved and renowned restaurants.

Thought to be Glasgow's oldest culinary establishment, prepare to step into a bygone era and discover the timeless charm of a true Glasgow institution, The Buttery — where the relaxed, old-school ambience will wrap you in its warm embrace, leaving you reluctant to bid farewell.

The Restaurant

Immerse yourself in the heart of Glasgow's culinary scene as you enter The Buttery restaurant—an iconic destination that has flourished since joining the Two Fat Ladies group.

Adorned with ornate oak and mahogany wood, stained glass and tartan carpets, the interior exudes formal Scottish luxury, creating an intimate setting of familiarity and ease.

Often coined as a fine dining establishment, we prefer not to be confined by labels. At The Buttery, we strive to create an atmosphere where guests feel truly welcomed, comfortable, and immersed in the relaxed yet vibrant energy of a bustling Scottish restaurant.

Think of us as the epitome of relaxed dining, where the finest Scottish ingredients take centre stage.

The restaurant is all on the one level and wheelchair accessible. Our toilets however have small steps leading into them and the female cubicles have a narrow entrance.

Our food menus showcase the refined modern cooking and quality produce that The Buttery has become known for—celebrating outstanding seasonal ingredients with each dish showcasing the best that Scotland has to offer.

In addition to our a la carte and set lunch offerings, we provide a dedicated vegetarian and vegan menu. Gluten-free options are outlined, as we strive to accommodate guests' broad range of dietary requirements.

Our carefully curated wine list has been carefully thought out and selected to offer a wide choice of grape varieties, regions and flavour profiles.

The gantry is equally considered with an excellent choice of premium spirits, with a sizeable malt whisky and Scottish gin selection. Our cocktail list has a good mix of classic, modern and non-alcoholic cocktails to choose from.
