DARU-WALLA RECOMMENDS

YASMIN'S FANCY (UP)

Smoky affair kindled from potent mix of two coveted whiskies (Johnnie Walker Black Label and Laphroaig), spiced Dishoom Chai tincture, Carpano Antica Formula Vermouth and dashes of Bénédictine. Delicious, dramatic, intense. 15.60

DIAMOND THRILLER (UP)

Swashbuckling mix of Cointreau, cranberry and Finlandia Vodka, with chilli and lime shrub. A nostalgic nod to films starring stuntwoman 'Fearless Nadia', who captivated 1940s Bombay. 14.60

SOURS & FANCIES

INDIA GIMLET (UP)
Beefeater Dry Gin shaken with Rose's Lime and celery bitters, finished with fresh dill. The gimlet is an old-established drink devised for sailors to avoid scurvy – you too can benefit. 12.90

DISHOOM MARGARITA (UP)
Tequila El Jimador and lime juice shaken with clarified tamarind and subtle spice. Magic dust on one half of the rim. Admire the subtleties of mango. And switch the tequila with The Lost Explorer Mezcal Espadín, for that smoky feeling. 12.90

1948 SOUR (UP)
Sincerely dry sour of Amrut and Nikka Days whiskies, with Dishoom Plum Liqueur and eggless (aquafaba) foam. Historians: Amrut distillery was founded in the year between India's Independence and Bombay's Prohibition. Vegans: enjoy. 13.20

CHAI CAFFÈ MARTINI (UP)
Sip Baba's espresso, chai spices and banana-laced La Hechicera Rum through a silky cushion of crema. Revive revelries. 12.90

SUNNY'S STAR-TINI (UP)
Sparkling wine atop fresh passion fruit and bay leaf liqueur, lashed with vanilla bitters and laced with Finlandia Vodka. An otherwise well-known cock-tail affair, here up-dated. 12.90

SLINGS, COOLERS & FIZZES

BOLLY BELLINI (FLUTE)
A tipple for any time of day or night, such is its allure. Beneath deep foam is sparkling wine with juicy mango and guava syrup. A hint of kokum, India's ancient cooling fruit. 12.90

PINK SHISO SPRITZ (TALL)
Tanqueray's Rangpur Lime Distilled Gin on ice with sparkling wine, shiso cordial, white balsamic syrup, soda and a ruffle of shiso leaf. Tall, pale pink, light and less inebriating than most. 13.50

BLUSHING COLADA (TALL)
Classic ice-crush of coconut cream and pineapple juice dances with dragon fruit and pawpaw. Blushing pink, with a warm heart of Takamaka Seychelles Rum Blanc. Adorned with crimson dragon fruit. 12.90

KOHINOOR MOJITO (TALL)
Be not fooled by innocent appearances! Crystal-clear muddle of Takamaka Seychelles Rum Blanc, dry white vermouth, soda and house-made mojito cordial. A bushel of fresh mint pleases noses. 13.20

BLOOD-ORANGE LAGERITA (TALL)
Intensely quenchy icy-slushie. Crisp Kingfisher blitzed up with sweet-sweet blood-orange and sharp-sharp pomegranate. Fresh ginger and Tequila El Jimador warm the throat. 8.90

PEGS, PUNCHES, ETC., ETC.

PREMIER PADMINI NEGRONI (PEG)
Dark, rich, silken Indian cocoa and sweet pears soaked overnight in bitter Campari, Carpano Classico Vermouth and Beefeater Dry Gin. Scarlet-hued attraction with chocolate garnish. A nod to the Italian Fiat 1100 made on Indian soil – the iconic Bombay taxi. 14.90

THANDAI MILK PUNCH (PEG)
Clarified yet creamy, cooling blend of Diplomático Reserva Exclusiva Rum, almond milk, black pepper and cardamom bitters – not to mention fragrant Thandai syrup. Adorned with fresh cardamom leaf. 15.20

PERMIT ROOM OLD-FASHIONED (PEG)
With coconut-washed Woodford Reserve Bourbon, Pedro Ximénez Sherry and Medjool-date liqueur, this newly-fashioned old hat is light, strong and smooth. "High-class Bombay in a glass" – so they say. 15.20

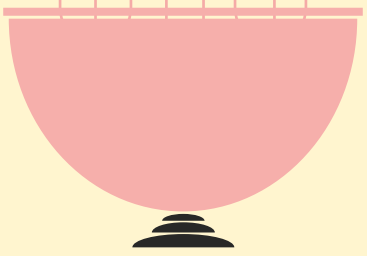

PISTACHIO KULFI CREAM (TALL)
Delicate green with oat cream, pistachio butter and aromatic gin from Stranger & Sons' Third Eye Distillery in Goa. A comforting drink one can sink into, much like a pale sofa. 15.20

LIBERTY PUNCH

For a bold new nation, a jubilant libation:
H by Hine VSOP Cognac, Earl Grey, lime, cinnamon and black cardamom.

Hitherto made only for gatherings of four or more people, but today also procurable in individual glasses. Do not hesitate to enquire.

(Ve) Vegan

SPARKLING

BELLA STORIA:
SPUMANTE, NV, VENETO
Extra-dry, refreshing aperitivo akin to Prosecco. Organic Garganega grapes grown by old-established family co-operative. Insist on having a 'beautiful history' (bella storia)!
(Ve) 125ml / 750ml 10.90 / 47.50

BERNARD REMY CHAMPAGNE:
BRUT CARTE BLANCHE, NV
Triumphant trio of Champagne grapes, grown by the renowned Remy family. Refreshing citrus and honeyed brioche with flickers of florals and mint amidst a flurry of fine, delicate bubbles. Commence jubilant clinkery.
(Ve) 750ml 69.00

FUNKELWÜRTZ ZERO:
SELBACH-OSTER, NV,
MOSEL VALLEY
Alcohol-free organic sparkling wine of Muscat Blanc and Rivaner grapes, with the giddy name of 'Funky Sausage' (one must ask the Selbach family for precise meaning). Light, balanced, German.
(Ve) <0.5% 750ml 38.10

WHITE

175ML GLASS / 500ML CARAFE / 750ML BOTTLE

EL CAMPEÓN: BODEGAS PANIZA, VIURA, 2025, CARIÑENA
Perky pineapple, ripe stone fruits and softest florals from summer days on Iberian mountains. Cooler nights impart zest. An affable and quaffable campéon (champion).
(Ve) 8.90 / 23.70 / 35.50

TUATARA BAY: SAUVIGNON BLANC, 2025, MARLBOROUGH
Dry, crisp attack of passion fruit, grapefruit and gooseberry. A glimmer of minerals and celery salt. Welcome companion to grills, seafood, rich curries etc., etc., etc. from the very best hands in Sauvignon Blanc (Saint Clair). (Ve) 10.50 / 25.70 / 38.50

RUMBLEFISH: NV, VINHO VERDE
Snappy green apple and lime sherbet tickle cheeks, tame spice, refresh palates. Grapes bathed in Atlantic sea mists are behind this lively spritz. More mellow in alcohol than most (10.5% ABV).
(Ve) 12.90 / 32.90 / 49.50

CONT...

SECATEURS:
A.A. BADENHORST, CHENIN BLANC, 2025, SWARTLAND
Glistening threads of white peach, honey, orange blossom and flint, for silken sipping. Made by a maverick, revered in the mountains and beyond. Pairs pleasingly with spice.
(Ve) 13.30 / 37.30 / 56.00

ROSÉ

175ML GLASS / 500ML CARAFE / 750ML BOTTLE

H-HERO ROSATO: LA CANTINA PIZZOLATO, NV, VENETO
Lightest-brightest whisper of a redcurrant, a cranberry and a (just-picked) raspberry. Decades of Italian family know-how sit behind this dangerously sippable, barely-there pink. Organic.
(Ve) 9.90 / 26.30 / 39.50

RED

175ML GLASS / 500ML CARAFE / 750ML BOTTLE

DAMA D ROCA:
BODEGAS PANIZA, GARNACHA, 2025, CARIÑENA
Juicy brambles and midnight cherries laced with vanilla and spice. Garnacha vines burst majestically through stony Iberian foothills for this unendingly drinkable, ruby-red 'queen of the rock' (dama de roca).
(Ve) 8.90 / 23.70 / 35.50

ADEGA DE LISBOA TINTO:
CASA SANTOS LIMA, 2024, LISBOA
Uncommon paragon of Portuguese gentleness: velvety purple damsons and berries with lingering liquorice, fine tannins and very mellow spice. Cooling Atlantic air makes for most agreeable swigging.
(Ve) 10.50 / 25.70 / 38.50

IL PUMO: SAN MARZANO, PRIMITIVO, 2025, SALENTO
Luscious splendour of jammy cooked plums and darkest cherries with cinnamon, vanilla and a fleck of rosemary. Couples joyously with Black Daal. Named for fertility, so follow your nose into fruity pleasure profound.
(Ve) 12.90 / 32.90 / 49.50

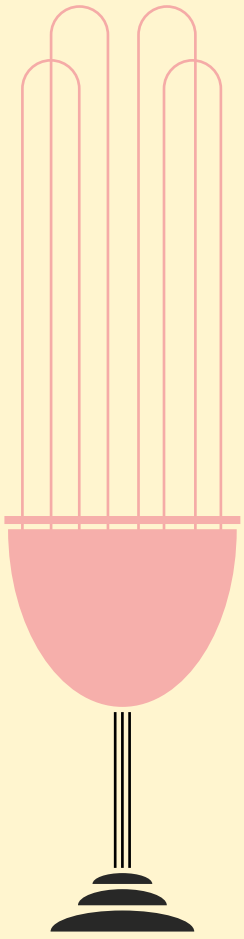

KILLKA: BODEGAS SALENTEIN, MALBEC, 2024, VALLE DE UCO
Masterpiece drawn from richest Malbec. Plump, heavy blackberries and smoothest-darkest cacao reach dramatic depths thanks to cleverly criss-crossed, high-up vineyard. Unhesitatingly exquisite in all respects. (Ve) 15.90 / 39.30 / 59.00

All wines can be served in 125ml measures.
(Ve) Vegan

ORANGE

175ML GLASS / 500ML CARAFE / 750ML BOTTLE

DISHOOM COVENT GARDEN STORY

I watch, entranced, as Ruby brings the last bars of her song to a wistful close. Cheers erupt from the audience. She stands at the microphone, grins bashfully. Her sari, draped and perfumed, is bottle-green and gold. The glamorous of Bombay, members of the band, old friends, wayward sailors all clap and shout their praise. She bows slightly.

Ruby seems to float off the stage. A gramophone clicks and crackles to life and music starts again. She glides between tables, past where I am sitting, making her way to the bar. Gin and lime with ice only. "Come beti, sit with me," suggests her mother, Yasmin, at the bar, drink in hand, strikingly beautiful in deep blue chiffon. They begin to gossip and laugh conspiratorially, as they often do.

Yasmin loves these evenings in her café-cum-club like nothing else. Each performance a hit, attended by all manner of Bombayites and revellers passing through this slightly wild port city. The obviously wealthy hob-nob with the beautiful, the rakish and the occasional ne'er-do-wells. Jazzmen, languid on rattan chairs, unwind to swing and jazz sounds. Cine stars, at home on the page 3 society photos, chatter self-importantly about the latest talkie showing in the new cinema next door.

I remember years ago when this was just a large, sleepy Irani café owned by Yasmin's father. An abiding favourite for patrons of all ages from Fort and beyond, it was a refuge from the street. I used to idle here over Bun Maska and Chai and read my newspaper while fans stirred the warm air gently. I look across the room at Yasmin, as she nods at the barman to top up her glass with a chota peg of whisky.

For the young Yasmin, life in the café had been dull and stuffy. She had dreamed of a different life. Wilful and rebellious, she drank and smoked and you might say that she found herself where she should not be, at the bar at Green's Hotel. There, she encountered a certain straight-backed Lt. Calum Hourston-Gordon, Highland Light Infantry. They say he was extremely handsome, if slightly roguish, and that his bright blue eyes made her smile. I've also been told that there was little that could have kept them apart that warm night in Colaba.

The delicious and intense affair was conducted in the rooms of Green's and Watson's Hotels over the course of the next year. The Lieutenant had been wholly sincere when he reminisced of his childhood in the Cairngorms and they talked of Yasmin's future as Mrs. Hourston-Gordon and their life together at his family home in Ballater. Who knows what the natives of Aberdeenshire would have made of her, or indeed what she would have made of them. But, perhaps inevitably, he left, his regiment posted away from India, leaving a tearful 19-year-old Yasmin with a baby girl (and a whisky habit).

Those early years of motherhood for a so-called 'fallen woman' in Bombay must have been very tough. They say that Yasmin rose above the dishonour and tittle-tattle with a remarkable and healthy indifference. She never really cared what people said. Her father, of course, had been shocked by her scandalous behaviour, but he was a good man and he was always there for her. Looking at her now, I suspect that there is hardly a moment she regrets. Yasmin was different. She always had a rare and enviable confidence, a self-sufficiency that allowed her to turn things to her to advantage. When her dear father passed, she dreamed again, this time to turn the café into a place where everyone could be everything they imagined and more. Including her wonderful baby girl.

Born the same year as India's first talkie, Alam Ara, was released, spirited little Ruby was surely destined for stardom. I hear that since she watched Hunterwali as an impressionable 7-year-old, she dressed and styled her hair according to her favourite heroine – even wearing shorts and fashioning herself a mask. Demanding of life and buoyed by her mother, Ruby grew up ambitious and determined to be in the films. Glittering lights, red velvet curtains and the films of the silver screen all captured her heart, none more so than those featuring the swashbuckling stuntwoman, Fearless Nadia.

No doubt, the persistence, confidence and striking good looks that she had inherited helped her find her way to the film sets of Wadia Movietone Productions, the very company that launched Nadia. Too briefly, she swung swords, fought lions, ran through fire. Sadly, her dream was cut short after injuring her spine thrice, swinging from chandeliers. No-one thought she would make a recovery.

But she was tough and undeterred, and far too used to being the centre of attention. Her mother's café soon became her new stage. As I look around, I can see only a few traces of the way it once was. It has changed, and somehow the place now reflects more or less perfectly the polish and poise of mother and daughter. It is certainly anything but sleepy.

To her mother and their patrons, Ruby is the star of Bombay. A stream of guests flows into the club nightly to see her perform and to take in the heady atmosphere and drink strong toddy-laden tipples. Each night, as she stands on the stage, the large windows offer her a front-row view of the next-door cinema. Do I sense a trace of disappointment behind her eyes? She will never be in the Bombay talkies. Perhaps the touch of sadness adds something to her presence.

Regardless, the band plays on, the music enchants, and Ruby continues to bewitch Bombay. Don't fail to visit the café and don't fail to see her. And do remember me to Yasmin.
