

COQ D'ARGENT

Pawel's Selection

I have been passionate about spirits for the last 12 years – it offers almost infinite variety and has the power to delight and even surprise.

As Bar & Grill Manager at Coq d'Argent, I have selected a short list of whisky flights which will give you an opportunity to try four different whiskys from four different regions in Scotland or four different country's.

All whisky's are served by 20ml measures.

Scottish Malt Whisky 50ml*Lowlands

The terrain of the Lowlands is characterised by rolling fields which are ideally suited to growing grain whisky. The softer landscape is mirrored in the region's single malt, which tend to be lighter in both colour and body. With little or no peat used in the drying of the malt, the whiskies distilled here are generally fresh and light, floral and fragrant.

Campbeltown

Campbeltown whiskies are a curious mix. Characteristics include a defined dryness with pungency, smoke and a solid salinity. It's almost a cross between the Lowlands and the Western Highlands with a pinch of salt thrown in for good measure.

Islands (Islay, Skye and Jura)
 Sitting amongst the Inner and Outer Hebrides are the malt whisky producing islands. Rugged, windswept and barren, these island landscapes generally produce single malt whiskies with strong peaty, marmite aromas. The Islands malt range from powerful, bursting with flavour notes such as the black pepper to the lighter, aromatic notes. The Isle of Islay is generally recognised for its smoky malts like the pungent, peat – smoke sweetness of Lagavulin. Not all Islay malts are so full of rich smoke however like the cleaner, lighter notes in Caol Ila.
