Inspired by Rock n’ Roll’s Bohemian past, our carefully-crafted cocktail list rekindles fables of the most infamous hotel & fashion hedonism.

ESPRESSO MARTINI

“I want something that’ll wake me up, then f*ck me up”

...Kate Moss allegedly asked cocktail maestro Dick Bradsell, who masterfully whipped up the world’s first Espresso Martini. Top Model at 16 and the face of brands, Kate’s been Britain’s deviant heart-throb and no stranger to decadent hotel rooms.

After being reprimanded for strutting a bikini along the glam hallways of Hôtel Du Cap, Kate returned to trash her room in protest – being banned from ever setting foot in the hotel again. From fashion menace to matriarch, Kate’s tippie morphs like her style – from three beers and a Marlboro to Vodka and coffee.

- * Ketel One Vodka
- * Hazelnut Coffee Liqueur
- * Freshly Brewed Espresso

CHAMPAGNE SUPERNOVA

Columbia Hotel was a regular host to some of the biggest Rock n' Roll stars, among them 'Inspiral Carpets', along with their roadie at the time, Noel Gallagher.

His next visit returning to Columbia Hotel with Oasis years on was a little more raucous during the band's recording of Definitely Maybe.

"By six in the morning, it was just me and Bonehead and Sid left drinking, and for some reason, all the furniture in the bar started getting thrown out of the windows... we'd already packed our bags and walked out."

The first track Noel wrote for Oasis was called 'Columbia' as an ode to the hotel.

- * Ketel One Vodka
- * Peach Liqueur
- * Lemon Juice
- * Champagne
- * Mint

NIGHT CLUBBER

Bold and brash, Grace Jones is the poster-girl for the whirlwind of the 80's and hazy memories of Studio54.

We've honoured her flamboyant nature through the hotel story she tells in her bio, of nonchalantly going to pick up her then boyfriend Dolph Lundgren...

"We turned up at the hotel, not to shoot anyone, but to make sure he came with us. We banged on the door of his room. Bang, bang, bang! "I've got a gun," I'm screaming "Let him out you bastard!" Hair flying, legs flailing, breasts heaving, guns flashing, music pumping. This was the kind of hysteria that took place in Los Angeles hotels."

- * Demerara Rum
- * Wild Elderberry Elixir
- * Citrus

BOHEMIAN GOLD

“Freddie could out-party me, which is saying something”... remarked Elton John. The Fairmont Hotel hosted one of those notorious parties.

On 1978’s Halloween, Queen had released ‘Jazz’ and were celebrating in Freddie’s ostentatious style – the city’s biggest freaks and eccentrics had been hired to entertain guests.

Mercury arrived to the hotel with a full brass band, flanked by snake charmers and strippers dressed as nuns, while indulging in the finest champagne (racking up a $200,000 bill).

The fact this party even happened is testimony to the King of Bohemia’s shindigs.

- * Honey

- * Champagne

ROCK 'N' ROSE

You can't have crazy stories of Rock n' Roll excess without including at least one member of Guns N' Roses.

In a hazy high, the band's guitarist, Slash, once apparently thought The Predator was in his hotel, trying to kill him.

In his frenzied panic, the guitarist blasted through a glass door at an Arizona golf course, butt-naked and in fear of his life. Making matters worse, he grabbed a hotel maid to use as a "human shield" against the Hollywood alien.

- * Tanqueray Gin
- * Pomegranate & Rosé Syrup
- * Lemon Juice
- * Belsazar Rosé
- * Brachetto D'Acqui

EXPLODING DRUM!

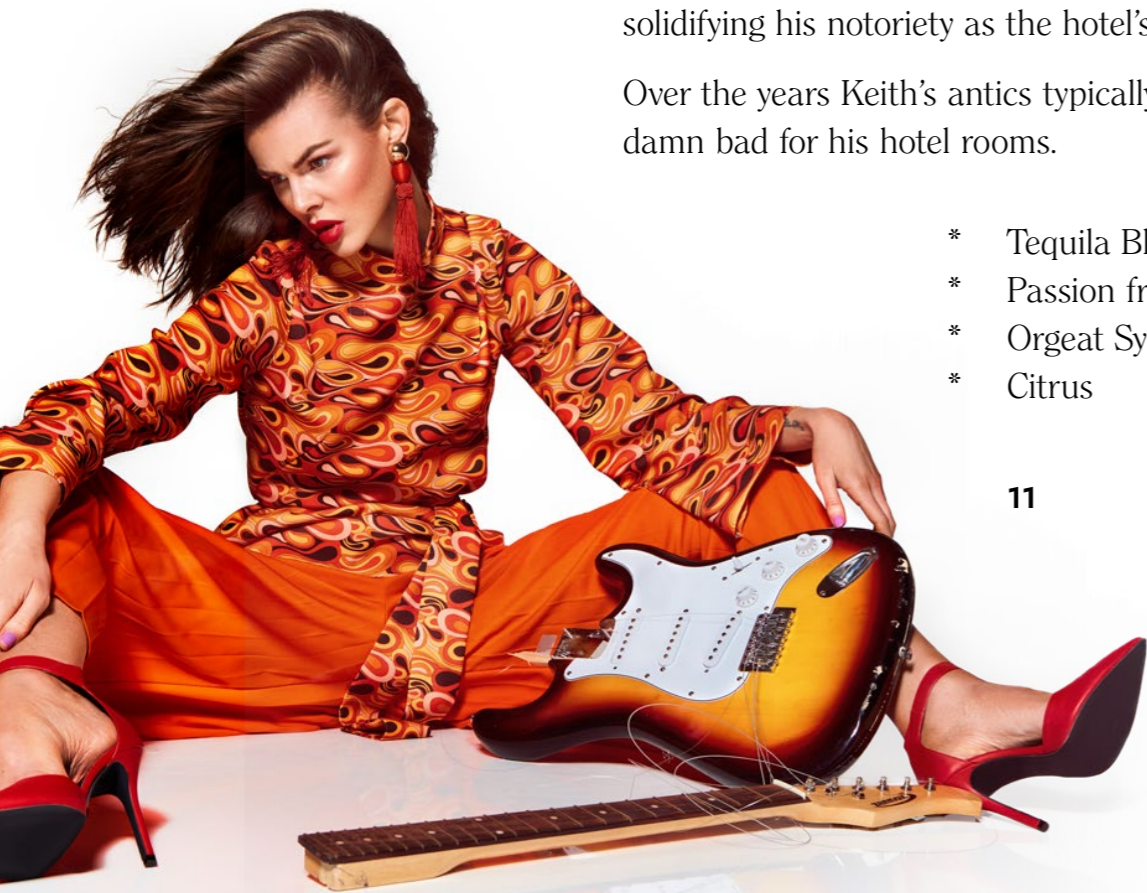

From stage drums strapped with a little too much explosive flash powder, to wiring band-mates' instruments with firecrackers, Keith Moon subsequently set the bar for hotel chaos.

The Who drummer was banned from every single Holiday Inn after being held responsible for the ensuing wave of accommodated madness. This including his 21st birthday stunt in 1967 – Moon stripped down and drove his Rolls Royce into the swimming pool of Michigan's Holiday Inn, solidifying his notoriety as the hotel's worst guest.

Over the years Keith's antics typically turned out pretty damn bad for his hotel rooms.

ROCK THE CASBAH

The Clash weren't a punk band, they were the punk band. When in 1977 their gig at Newcastle City Hall was cut short after they incited a riot between Punks, Students and Bouncers, the band decided to take the carnage back to Newcastle's Holiday Inn Hotel.

After a crazy night of partying and despite literally destroying their hotel room they were only formally charged with the theft of two pillowcases!

We're guessing the local constabulary were fans.

HOUSE OF GODS No.5

House of Gods No.5 is our homage to the original fashion Diva and the greatest designer of the 20th Century.

“I don’t do fashion. I am fashion”

Mademoiselle Coco Chanel not only freed women from the tyranny of the Victorian corset, she innovated casual elegance in now iconic designs such as the “Chanel” suit, the little black dress and of course Chanel No.5.

She lived unapologetically, bringing glamour wherever she went. Perhaps her greatest extravagance was deciding to live in the Ritz Hotel in Paris for over 30 years, even though her apartment was directly across the street.

- * Ginger Infused Tanqueray Gin
- * Pomegranate Liqueur
- * Hibiscus Syrup
- * Citrus
- * Peychauds Bitters

BLONDE BOMBSHELL

Actress. Model. Businesswoman. Icon. Legend.

Blonde Bombshell is our tribute to “the most photographed person of the 20th century”, Norma Jean Mortenson AKA Marilyn Monroe.

Marilyn Monroe lived hotel hedonism. Whether honeymooning with Joe Dimaggio at the New York Knickerbocker Hotel (and occupying the entirety of their legendary Lido Bar), or secret rendezvous with Arthur Miller at the Hollywood Roosevelt, everything she did, she did with unforgettable style.

Goodbye Norma Jean. This one’s for you.

BILLIONAIRE GIRLS CLUB

Some people play the game and some people change it... “Shine bright like a Diamond” – that’s exactly what Queen Rihanna Fenty did.

Signed to Def Jam at 17 she has enjoyed a dream career. 54 Million album sales, 100 Million gold and platinum records, 14 Billboard number 1’s and now CEO of fashion house “Fenty Beauty”. At the grand age of 33 she finds herself listed by Forbes Magazine as worth 1.7 Billion dollars, making her the wealthiest female musician on the planet.

Rihanna lives her best life, regularly hiring out the entire floor of five star hotels while or renting additional suites just to keep her tour outfits.

Some people just know how to live it up....

HOUSE OF THE RISING SUN

An ancient Japanese legend promises that anyone who folds a thousand origami cranes will be granted a wish by the gods.

Some stories believe one is granted happiness and eternal good-luck. Others believe that the promise of the Gods is a single all fulfilling wish.

At House of Gods we believe wishes can come true which is why we will donate £1000 to the Make A Wish foundation for every 1000 House of the Rising Sun cocktails served.
