MONTECRISTO

Comparatively speaking Montecristo is a relatively new brand that was launched in 1937. They were developed in conjunction with the then importers of Cuban cigars into the UK, John Hunter Morris, half of the name of the company which to this day still imports all Cuban cigars into the UK - Hunters and Frankau.

Montecristo are probably the 'definitive' Cuban cigar, with the Montecristo No. 2, a pyramid, being the flagship of the brand.

ROMEO Y JULIETA

The most romantically named of all the brands of Cuban cigar, Romeos are also one of the most well-known. The marque was founded by Innocencio Alvarez and Manin Garcia in 1875. The most famous of all cigar smokers, Sir Winston Churchill was an avid devotee of Romeo y Julieta cigars and after a visit to Havana in 1947, shortly after World War 2, a cigar was named in his honour. Today the The Churchill is one of the brands biggest selling sizes.

HOYO DE MONTERREY

Founded by Jose Gener, a tobacco farmer from Pinar Del Rio, Hoyos has been in production since 1860. Today, there still stands an iron gate in San Juan y Martinez with the inscription 'Hoyo de Monterrey, Jose Gener 1860' leading to his former tobacco plantation where he grew the tobacco for his own brand of cigar.

VEGAS ROBAINA

Introduced in 1997, Robaina cigars are named in honour of Alejandro Robaina, celebrating all those who are involved in the production of the world's finest cigars. Robaina himself was a legendary tobacco grower in Cuba's Vuelta Abajo region and wrapper leaves grown in his plantation are used to dress the cigars bearing his name.

H UPMANN

Upmann cigars have been manufactured since 1845. A German banker by trade, Herman Upmann was sent to Cuba to open a branch of the bank he was working for. He very quickly fell in love with the country and its cigars and decided to give up banking and produce his own. Still popular today, Upmann cigars are one of the milder smokes available from Cuba.

SAN CRISTOBAL DE LA HABANA

San Cristóbal de la Habana was the original name of Havana, Cuba's capital city, when it was founded in 1519; San Cristóbal (St Christopher) in honour of Columbus and La Habana after an Indian name for the site. San Cristóbal de la Habana cigars were introduced in 1999 as a tribute to the city's long history on the threshold of the new Millennium.

CUABA

Every Cuaba is made in the distinctive shape known as double figurado. This was the style that at the end of the 19th Century was all the rage for Habanos. Cuaba, like Cohiba, is a Taino Indian word dating back to the time of Columbus. It was the word for a highly combustible bush, which the Indians used to light their "cohibas".

PUNCH

Established in 1840 and intended for the British market - where a comic book featuring a character named 'Mr. Punch' was in fashion - Don Manuel Lopez, owner of the J. Valley Cuba, established the Punch cigar brand. The comedian still adorns the box decoration of these outstanding Cuban cigars. In 1931, Punch became associated with Hoyo De Monterrey. Since then, the two brands have been made in the same factory: La Corona.

SANCHO PANZA

Like other great Habano brands, Sancho Panza takes its name from a masterpiece of world literature. Don Quixote, the famous 17th Century Spanish novel, describes Sancho Panza serving the errant knight as his faithful squire. His name was first used for a Habano in 1848 and since then it has enjoyed a reputation for quality amongst discerning smokers.

TRINIDAD

Trinidad is named after the beautiful 16th Century city of La Santísima Trinidad (The Holy Trinity), listed by UNESCO as a historical monument, which is situated on Cuba's south coast. Trinidad, as a Habano, dates back to 1969 but for many years, like Cohiba, it was made only for gifts to foreign diplomats. Not until 1998 was it released for general sale and then only in small quantities.
