

Korean Dinner Party

There's a right way and a wrong way to drink Soju.
Here's a few easy rules to follow.

- 1 DPYO
Don't pour your own drink. Always make sure that you pour for someone else, and watch your drinking mates glasses attentively to see if they need a refill.
- 2 GIVING & GETTING
When pouring for others, hold the Soju bottle with both hands. When receiving, hold your own glass with two hands.
- 3 SENIORITY RULES
Respecting your elders reigns supreme in Korea. If someone at the table is older than you, make sure they are filled up first.
- 4 LOWER OR HIGHER
When you cheers each other, adjust your glasses so that your glass is lower than your seniors and higher than your juniors.
- 5 ALWAYS ENJOY WITH FOOD
The main ways to drink Soju are: as a shot, dropped in a shot glass in a beer, with a mixer or the KDP way as a JINRO Fizz. But the number one rule is to always enjoy with food since the flavour profiles of Soju and Korean food match perfectly.
