The Big Market, Newcastle. 7 Nov. 1898.

Beneath the city lights in the depths of subterranean Newcastle lies the beating heart of culture and voice. Where the dreamers become doers, the thinkers become changers and the people of yesterday, become the people of tomorrow.

WE WELCOME YOU TO THE WC, CHANGING PERCEPTIONS AND PEOPLE SINCE 1898

In 1898, with Queen Victoria still on the throne and the North booming with newfound industry, a water closet was installed for the people of Newcastle. Found below a cascading set of stairs and placed inside a market filled with life, it was yet to become the abandoned WC people remember so well.

For 6 years lying dormant, the site went untouched, patiently waiting for a new purpose.

The public passed by, the city grew stronger and the nightlife blossomed around it.

It only took a local pair of eyes to see the potential hidden beneath the glass ceiling.

GEORDIE THE GIRAFFE

It may be hard to believe, but just across the road from where you are sat, there was once a full-scale indoor winter zoo in the heart of Newcastle's Bigg Market.

The extravagant attraction housed a host of animals including monkeys, lions, tigers, pumas, a dolphin, snakes and a collection of exotic birds! But according to our sources, it was Geordie the giraffe and Fred the Indian elephant who became the zoo's main stars of the show, attracting thousands of visitors

The animals made their journey up North from Flamingo Land in North Yorkshire as word on the street is that the animals "became bored and listless over the winter months because of a lack of visitors, so the idea of a Christmas holiday in Newcastle's Town Hall was conceived."

It wasn't uncommon to see these extraordinary animals walking on leashes or chains with their keepers through the Bigg Market, startling shoppers and drinkers in the city centre pubs. Indeed, one punter told The Chronicle Newspaper: "A friend and myself were having a quiet pint in the Old George. A man walked in the bar with a pet on a leash. The pet was a puma and the leash was a chain. He walked over to the bar and ordered a pint before settling down at the bar with the puma. Everyone else was speechless."

TALES FROM THE TYNE

Designed by the engineering firm Mott, Hay and Anderson and built by Dorman Long and Co. of Middlesbrough, the Tyne Bridge was the world's longest single span bridge at the time of construction. Connecting the vibrant city of Newcastle-upon-Tyne and neighboring town Gateshead, the Tyne Bridge is the most celebrated and most iconic of all seven bridges that cross the River Tyne in the central section often referred to as the Newcastle Gateshead Quayside.

King George V & Queen Mary officially opened the bridge on Wednesday, October 10, 1928. When the king finally declared the bridge open, the Chronicle reported how it prompted

"SHRILL WHISTLES FROM SHIPS, WORKSHOPS AND FACTORIES, AND THE FULL-BODIED HOOTING OF STEAMER SIRENS. BELLS CLAMORED FROM CHURCH TOWERS, AN AIRPLANE FLEW LOW, AND BANDS PLAYED."

In 1928 when it was built, the total cost of the Bridge was £1.2m, 60% of which was paid for by the Ministry of Transport. With inflation, that figure would just be short of £70m today. As well as a source of local pride, the new Tyne Bridge was immediately celebrated as a symbol of Tyneside's international reputation for industrial excellence. The Times of London reported on January 31, 1928 that "Tynesiders as a whole are proud of this scheme ... because of the ingenuity of the idea and of its successful execution".

WALKING IN A SHEARER WONDERLAND

Few people on the Tyneside can forget the beautiful summer of 1996, when Newcastle born and bred Alan Shearer joined his hometown club Newcastle United for a then world record £15 million!

After transferring from Blackburn Rover's, nobody was surprised that the goals continued to flow in for Shearer, and in the first of his ten seasons at St. James' Park he scored 28 goals - forming a lethal partnership with Les Ferdinand. Under Sir Bobby Robson, the goals just kept on coming, with Shearer's goal tallybreaking through the 100 barrier during a 2001/2002 campaign that saw Newcastle United qualify for the Champions League. Over his next five years, the former striker continued to hit double figures every season as he drew closer to Jackie Millburn's mighty 20 mark!

Shearer is the top Premier League goalscorer of all time, collecting 260 goals over the course of his career, with a frankly superb 206 goals scored for Newcastle in his ten years at the club.

The fact that record remains unchallenged today, 15 years since his retirement, goes to show what an unbelievable achievement it was. The former striker, of the greatest players in Premier League history, has now become a prominent broadcaster with the BBC since hanging up his boots.
