

The Story of Black and Green's Beverage Collection

Thank you for visiting Black & Green, at Black and Green we are passionate about all things British. This includes our drinks list which is exclusively sourced from British producers.

This passion started in 2018 when as guests in a famous London Restaurant we were advised that Champagne wouldn't be served, and that English Sparkling Wine is there chosen to pour, this initially came as a surprise however we were poured a glass of Ridgeview and never looked back & to this date we continue to champion our wonderful vineyards.

We accept that Britain traditionally has not been famous for its wine production however over recent years the UK has really raised its game and now famous Champagne houses grow grapes on our shores.

There are currently over 700 individual vineyards in the British Isles ranging from extremely small ones (the smallest only has six vines) to ones of almost 90-ha 222-acres) producing 10.5 million bottles a year.

We believe it is more important than ever to support these often-small family (like us) business's and this is key to our ethos and offering, which is to ensure a sustainable and supportive hospitality micro economy, resilient to import and seasonal change.

We appreciate that many guests wouldn't have experienced wine from the home nations, so please do not hesitate to ask for a taste just like we did in 2018, maybe you will love them as much as we do.

Our Drinks Menu Celebrates the Best of British Produce. Sam, Emma, and Andy have visited the UK's most progressive Vineyards and distilleries to source the best wine the UK has to offer, don't be afraid to try it you will be pleasantly surprised and if you're unsure just ask and we will pour you a sample to see if it's to your taste. We don't believe there is a need to import anything and that supporting our local producers is key to a classical "black" menu and sustainability supporting our "Green" approach. Prices are based on glass and bottle price and unless otherwise stated are 125ml or 750ml. Spirits are served in 50ml measure.
