

WELCOME TO THE FUN BIT

Curiosity has a habit of leading to good things.

The drinks on these pages are the result of asking "what if?" more times than we can count.

Some stay close to tradition.

Others wander off a little.

Either way, every one has a reason to be here.

You'll spot a few familiar faces, a handful of classics, and some drinks we've made our own along the way.

They're built around great tequila, mezcal, fresh ingredients and a few things we've spent far too much time making from scratch.

So have a look around, follow your instincts, and if you'd like a nudge in the right direction, just ask.

We never need much of an excuse to talk cocktails.

LA LOCA

We wanted something bold, beautiful, slightly unhinged and impossible to ignore.

Dark cherries and berries, hibiscus and pink peppercorn arrive deep red and shimmering.
Fruity at first, with a sharper side waiting underneath.

GOLDEN HOLR

Our house-pineapple tepache, dressed for the evening.
Fermented pineapple, bright citrus and fizz
make it lighter than the Margarita,
but with all the tropical depth still intact.

FIZZY RITA

A Margarita with it's hair down. Still sharp, and unmistakably agave-led. Just stretched with bubbles and built as a refreshing burst of the classic

SOBREMESA

There's no direct English translation for sobremesa.
It's the time spent lingering around the table after a meal, when nobody's in a rush to leave and conversation quietly takes over.

It's one of those ideas that feels so natural in Mexico,
it has its own word.

Rich, warming and created for exactly that moment.

LOS PLÁTANOS

Banana cocktails deserve more respect.
Silky, rounded and nostalgic in all the right ways,
but very definitely not innocent.

SWEET HEAT

Honey says hello.
Chilli gets the last word.

Sweet, smoky and a little spicy,
with enough fresh citrus to keep the whole thing
just about under control.

TEPACHE RITA

This one starts several days before it reaches your glass.

Built around our house-made tepache,
creating a Margarita that's tropical,
gently funky and unmistakably Pellizco.

PICANTE VERDE

The Spicy Marg.
Familiar enough. Different where it matters.

Cucumber, mint and green chilli keep it fresh and vivid, with the heat arriving late enough entice another sip.

THE PINCH

The drink that started it all.

A proper Margarita at heart, sharpened with fresh citrus, quality agave and a few small details we're keeping to ourselves.

ELECTRIC PALOMA

We wanted a Paloma with a little more voltage.

Our nod to one of Mexico's greatest drinks. Bright, refreshing and layered with subtle floral spice that quietly lingers long after the bubbles have disappeared.
