MEZZOGIORNO MEETS LANDMARK

Fiume, an integral part in the unfolding story of the Battersea Power Station, this restaurant is a firm local favourite with its authentic, fresh Italian flavours overlooking the piazza on the river's edge.

Our seasonal menus showcase the best of the Mezzogiorno region, most famous for rolling hills and stunning coast, pastel-colour towns and fresh produce.

Fiume, the Italian word for river, a tribute to its location on the banks of the Thames is made up of an elegant bar and restaurant, an open kitchen with a terrace sitting next to the Power Station and just in from the water's edge.

Fiume is an idyllic spot for indulging in fritto misto, a glass of Italian wine, or an occasion with friends, family or colleagues.
