

All Saint's The Old Chapel

All Saints Chapel, Meads, is a very beautiful, rather hidden venue. Situated by the sea in the picturesque seaside ancient village of Meads, Eastbourne, this is a majestic English architectural masterpiece was designed by Henry Woodyer in 1874. Part of the charm is the lack of use since it was built; most of the site is pristine as though it was enchanted and held in time.

The All Saints Estate was founded between 1867 and 1869 with land donated by the 7th Duke of Devonshire.

The Grade II listed Gothic chapel was added later in 1874. The Bavarian made (Mayer) windows in the Chapel are quite romantic; having a pre-Raphaelite, theatrical and literal quality and makes the chapel the best example of Victorian Gothic in the region.

All Saints The Old Chapel is deconsecrated (non-religious) and is fully licensed for civil partnerships, events and functions, making it a stunning versatile space to suit your every need.

The chapel is accessed from a leafy residential street through huge timber gates and has access to the front grounds of The Old Chapel, guests are able to mill around pre & post Ceremony here. The 'Confetti shot' is absolutely allowed here outside (Bio degradable only please). There is also a private entrance gate to the park available for wedding guests to use for beautiful parkland shots with the chapel in the background. One enters the interior through trimmed hedging and flower filled Urns, via beautiful arched old oak doors artfully lit by Victorian coach lights.

The venue has 4 parts:

The entrance reception,

A modern edition light and airy, the reception area is furnished with antique desks and pews and soft furnishings, complete with bar area, where we serve your post ceremony drinks and canapes.

' Harriots' Hallway',

An ancient old cloisters deservedly named after the founding and selfless, Sister Harriot Byron Brown, now beautifully decorated with strings of twinkling fairy lights and has a very important use as the pre -nuptial area for the Bride and her Bridesmaids to relax hidden from view before their grand entrance! (for those ghost hunters, some say that Sister Harriot has been felt roaming here in the twilight hours, gently guiding us as she has guided all those who have been the keeper of the keys for this outstanding building before us!);

Stairwell

You then find yourself in an open area of the stairwell, this houses two tables, draped with white linen, at the base of the wrought Iron stair banisters again twinkling with lights that draw the eye to the gothic windows which can be lit by candles other beautiful decoration. You are free to add your personal touches anywhere you feel but this is a perfect area to go to town, fill the tables with anything your heart desires, Candy, guest books, photos, doughnuts, post boxes. If you can dream it, we can host it.

The Great Hall

From the Stairwell the imposing solid Oak doors open to The Great Hall, where the Minton tiled Aisle awaits the anticipated arrival of The Bride. The Aisle is a fabulous 60 foot long. The Great Hall of the Old Chapel cannot be captured in photographs, the bejewelled light that floods in to the Hall is ever changing, and dances throughout the daylight hours highlighting different elements of the Chapel as the sun moves around this unique and majestic building. We are the only venue to have permission for lit candles in these areas only, which is very unusual during the ceremony. 30 metres of vaulted timber ceiling tower above the alter, 150 year old floor tiles lay beneath your feet, an elegant bar area stands beside hand carved pew ends in the near corner of the banquet hall, tempting guests to sample of our 25 different Gins on offer from our newly added boutique Gin Bar. The venue seats 120 persons with an area to dance available straight after the Wedding breakfast. The venue is simply sunning by day, but it is at night it takes on an incredible transformation with outstanding architectural lighting that sends coloured beams of light straight up the impressive gothic columns which in turn highlight all the carvings and spandrel of the intricate design of the building, finally throwing colour wash at the ceiling, giving the Old Chapel a vibe more likely to be found in a London club. So, if you are looking for a venue with the wow factor, somewhere different, you need to put us on your to contact list. We would love to show you around and talk through your dream day.

The Ladies Gallery

The Ladies Gallery which is accessed via stone steps some 20 metres above the chapel itself is also available for those special photos.

All Saints are fully licenced and set up for a full wedding service:-
